Global Trends for the New Century: Is the World Getting Bigger or Smaller?

Wednesday, March 12, 2003

Hotel Inter-Continental 505 North Michigan Avenue

5:30 p.m. Hors d'oeuvres, cash bar 6:30 -8:00 p.m. Panel discussion

Opening remarks:

Michael Moskow, Chairman, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Mr Moskow formerly served as Deputy U.S. Trade Representative, and was responsible for trade negotiations with Japan, China, and Southeast Asia, as well as industries including steel and telecommunications. He formerly taught at the Kellogg Graduate School of Management at Northwestern, and has a PhD from the University of Pennsylvania.

Panel discussion (moderated by Jerome McDonnell, Host of "Worldview" on WBEZ Chicago Public Radio):

Mel Bergstein, Chairman/CEO, Diamond Cluster International, a global consulting firm focusing on growth strategies and technology solutions. Mr Bergstein is a Wharton graduate, and is on the advisory board of a venture capital fund focused in Europe.

Pastora San Juan Cafferty, Professor, University of Chicago. Dr Cafferty's research interests include cultural diversity, race and ethnicity, and immigration. She is affiliated with the university's Center for Latin American Studies.

Jo-Marie Greisgraber, Policy Director, Oxfam America. Oxfam is a leading international development organization dedicated to creating solutions to hunger, poverty and social injustice around the world. Dr.Greisgraber is a graduate of Georgetown University.

Fred Steingraber, Managing Partner, Board Advisors LLC, and past Chairman/CEO of AT Kearney, which he led for 18 years (helping build practices in 35 new markets). He has an MBA from the University of Chicago.

Please join us for an evening of socializing and stimulating discussion with fellow alumni of Ivy League and Seven Sisters schools. Drawing upon their first-hand experience, our speakers will address a range of topics that are critical in understanding the world today. They will also welcome your questions. Don't miss THE event of the year for Chicago area alumni.
